Pastor’s Corner:

Inspiration comes from strange places. A text from an old friend, a video of the Pathfinders, plays about Esther and a discussion about songs from children's activities burned the thought, "We are His hands" into my head. The song, which I believe I learned here in Bismarck, as my children grew up, ran around in my head:

We are His hands to touch the world around us.
We are His feet to go where He may lead.
And we are His love burning in the darkness.
We are His love shining in the night.

We are His eyes to see the need in others.
We are His voice to tell of His return.
And we are His love burning in the darkness.
We are His love shining in the night.
By Jeff Wood

Blessings
